

Forces on Structures in an Earthquake

How do the forces of the earthquake affect the structures?

What internal forces do the structures have that make them more or less stable?